

PATRICK FARLEY OF BOWERY FAME FOUND DEAD IN BED

Old Residents Frequent His Saloon, Which Was a Landmark of Old Days.

Patrick Farley, one of the last of the old Boweryites, was found dead in bed at 8 o'clock this morning in his room over the famous saloon he conducted at No. 123 Bowery. He had been afflicted with the hardening of the arteries for several years and death resulted from an apoplectic stroke.

Farley was of the fast vanishing type of Seventh Warder. He belonged to a past generation and clung to old associates, old memories and old surroundings. After the death of his wife, five or six years ago, he was urged by his relatives to move away from the Bowery and end his days in quieter surroundings, but he could not be happy away from the vicinity of the Bowery and Grand street.

Born in Ireland sixty-six years ago, Farley came to New York a small boy with his parents. His father was a boot truckman and Farley, after a preliminary education in the public schools, went into the trucking business. By the time he attained his majority he was a power in politics and, as was the custom in those times, he utilized his political popularity in a practical way by starting a saloon at Sheriff and Broome streets.

Later he moved to Norfolk and Grand streets, then to No. 413 Grand street and to No. 121 Bowery. He established himself at No. 123 Bowery in 1885 and his saloon became one of the landmarks of the thoroughfare.

Farley was a member of the Board of Aldermen in 1884, and his experience in that organization of odorous memory soured his life for many years. He was full of recollections of the days of Boss Tweed, and secrets known only to a few at any time died with him to-day.

In a quiet way Farley was consistently charitable. How many old timers were on his pension roll only he knew. He was of simple tastes and insisted upon square dealing. He left a fortune estimated at more than $100,000.

Of late years Farley's place was about the only resort for the old East Siders. They would gather there in the evening and talk of the days when everything was Irish from Cherry Hill to Cooper Union and be known the modern trend of affairs in their section of the city.

Farley employed three bartenders who have been connected with his place from 30 to 35 years. Joe Brady, a "veteran of 25 years' service, once won a newspaper contest to establish the most popular bartender in New York. Farley was very proud of Brady who had the reputation of having never uttered an oath or a profane expression.

The only surviving relatives of Pat Farley are his brothers—Thomas, a retired police lieutenant, who lives on a Long Island farm, and Joseph, a court officer in the Bronx. It is probable that the funeral will be held next Saturday or Sunday from No. 123 Bowery.

PURCELL SENTENCED TO DIE.

Court Sets Week of June 20 for His Execution.

John Purcell, ex-gambler, who was convicted last week of killing his twelve-year-old daughter Agnes on Feb. 14, 1913, was sentenced to-day by Judge Nott in the Court of General Sessions to die in the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison during the week beginning June 24. Purcell received the sentence stolidly. He was taken to Sing Sing this afternoon.

During the winter of 1912-1913 Purcell jumped into prominence as a villain before the Curran Aldermanic Committee which was investigating the Police Department. Purcell testified to paying bribes to police officials and politicians. His story was afterward found to be a series of fabrications. Purcell's wife reproached him for his appearance before the Curran Committee and Purcell resented her criticism. It was in an effort to kill his wife that he shot his daughter, who was asleep in a room with the pair.

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

Scalp Dries—Chokes Out the Hair and Prevents Its Growth

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be silky, fluffy, lustrous, soft and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.
